Creative Brief

Wyatt Tait
10/27/26
Project Title: Richard Scarry Website

1. Project overview
The goal of my website is to capture the wonder and fun of the drawings and worlds that Scarry creates while also functioning as a bibliography of his work, and informing users about his life.

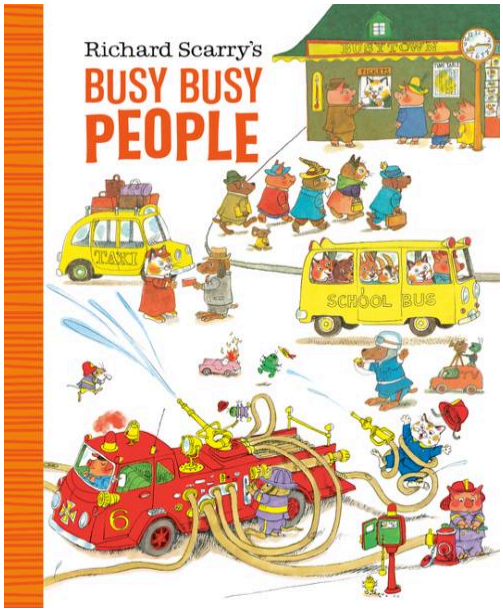

2. Resources
Copy is available athttps://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Richard_Scarry, and https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Busy_World_of_Richard_Scarry, images are widely available online. He also has a website here: https://www.richardscarry.com/.

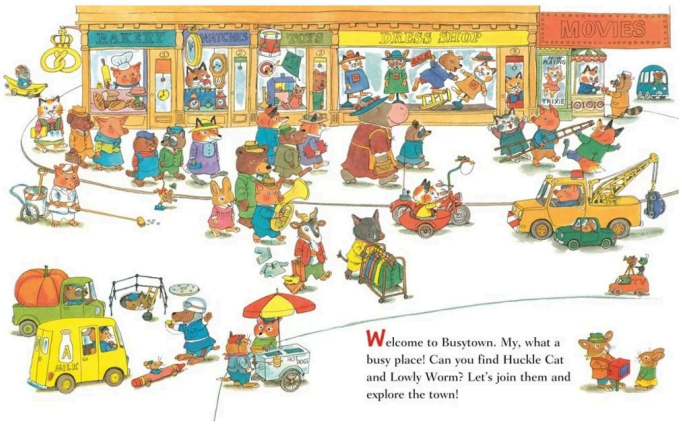

4. Audience
This site is informational and not for buying his work, it is more a fun exploration of his life and the worlds he has created, and then showing users what work he has made so that they can go out and source that as they want. I think it would be more aimed towards children as he is a children's book author but it should work for all ages to enjoy.

5. Message
The goal is really to just spread whimsy. I want the user to be absorbed into the world of the website and have fun being there. The message is really just look how awesome this is, please come explore it and have a blast while learning about it’s creator.

6. Tone
The tone will be quite playful and fun. I think it would be good if the copy could follow the tone of the book's writing, which is very simple and informational and more targeted towards kids.

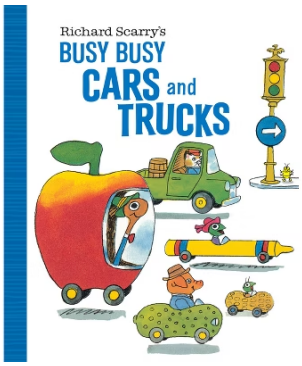

8. Visual Style
I think it needs to be very colorful and pastel, and utilize lots of the illustration in the make of the pages. I think the layout of the pages could draw reference from the way Scarry lays out his pages, when words flow around in reference to different images nearby.
Here are a few images for reference of Scarry's work and the tone of the website:

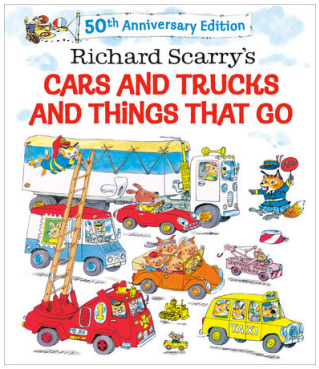

Richard Scarry's
BUSY BUSY
PEOPLE
BUSYTOWN
TAXI
SCHOOL BUS

BAKERY
TOYS
DRESS SHOP
MOVIES
Welcome to Busytown. My, what a busy place! Can you find Huckle Cat and Lowly Worm? Let's join them and explore the town!

THE RABBIT FAMILY'S HOUSE
Father Rabbit, Mother Rabbit, and the Rabbit Brothers are getting ready for the new day. Their friend Owl is waiting for the two brothers to come out to play. Can you find him?

Uncle Cat is getting gas for his car.
Look at Mr. Fixit on top of the traffic light! He likes to fix things. He is fixing this traffic light for good.
There are good drivers and bad drivers. Good drivers stay on the road. They do not go on the sidewalk. Good drivers always wear their seat belts.

Richard Scarry's
BUSY BUSY
CARS and TRUCKS

50th Anniversary Edition
Richard Scarry's
CARS AND TRUCKS
AND THINGS THAT GO

Lowly's Good Manners

